dark allegory describes the narrator s journey up the congo river and his meeting with and fascination by mr kurtz a mysterious personage who dominates the unruly inhabitants of the region masterly blend of adventure character development psychological penetration considered by many conrad s finest most enigmatic story in a novella which remains highly controversial to this day conrad explores the relations between africa and europe on the surface this is a horrifying tale of colonial exploitation the narrator marlowe journeys on business deep into the heart of africa but there he encounters kurtz an idealist apparently crazed and depraved by his power over the natives and the meeting prompts marlowe to reflect on the darkness at the heart of all men this short but complex and often ambiguous story which has been the basis of several films and plays continues to provoke interpretation and discussion heart of darkness grew out of a journey joseph conrad took up the congo river the verisimilitude that the great novelist thereby brought to his most famous tale everywhere enhances its dense and shattering power apparently a sailor s yarn it is in fact a grim parody of the adventure story in which the narrator marlow travels deep into the heart of the congo where he encounters the crazed idealist kurtz and discovers that the relative values of the civilized and the primitive are not what they seem heart of darkness is a model of economic storytelling an indictment of the inner and outer turmoil caused by the european imperial misadventure and a piercing account of the fragility of the human soul heart of darkness 1899 is a novella by polish english novelist joseph conrad about a narrated voyage up the congo river into the congo free state in the so called heart of africa charles marlow the narrator tells his story to friends aboard a boat anchored on the river thames this setting provides the frame for marlow s story of his obsession with the ivory trader kurtz which enables Conrad to create a parallel between what Conrad calls the greatest town on earth London and Africa as places of darkness central to Conrad's work is the idea that there is little difference between so-called civilised people and those described as savages. Heart of Darkness raises questions about imperialism and racism.

When Charles Marlow accepts the captaincy of a steamship in the Congo he witnesses the brutality with which the colonialists treat the African people. Setting off with a crew of cannibals, Marlow is tasked with transporting ivory downriver and rescuing a renowned ivory trader. On his journey, Marlow encounters the darkness of the Congo wilderness, the darkness of the Europeans' cruel treatment of the natives, and the darkness within every human being for committing heinous acts of evil. Heart of Darkness was based on Joseph Conrad's experiences as a steamship captain in the Congo. Conrad interwove his observations of the darkness in mankind, man's potential for duplicity, and the struggle between good and evil in everyone's soul. Widely regarded as a significant work of British literature, it was adapted by Orson Welles for the Mercury Theatre and used as the basis for Francis Ford Coppola's Apocalypse Now.

Although Polish by birth, Joseph Conrad (1857–1924) is regarded as one of the greatest writers in English. Heart of Darkness, first published in 1902, is considered by many his most famous, finest, and most enigmatic story. Encyclopaedia Britannica: The tale concerns the journey of the narrator Marlow up the Congo River on behalf of a Belgian trading company. Far upriver, he encounters the mysterious Kurtz, an ivory trader who exercises an almost godlike sway over the inhabitants of the region, both repelled and fascinated by the man. Marlow is brought face to face with the corruption and despair that Conrad saw at the heart of human existence. In its combination of narrative and symbolic power, masterly character study, and acute psychological penetration, Heart of Darkness ranks as a landmark of modern fiction. It is a book no serious student of literature can afford to miss.

Heart of Darkness centers around Marlow, an introspective sailor, and his journey up the Congo River to meet Kurtz, reputed to be an idealistic man of great abilities. Marlow takes a job as a riverboat captain with the company, a Belgian concern organized to trade in the Congo. As he travels to Africa and then up the Congo, Marlow encounters widespread inefficiency and brutality in the company's stations. The native inhabitants of the region have been forced into the company's service and they suffer terribly from overwork and ill treatment at the hands of the company's agents. The cruelty and squalor of imperial enterprise contrasts sharply with the impassive and majestic jungle that surrounds the white man's settlements, making them appear to be tiny islands amidst a vast darkness.

Heart of Darkness by Joseph Conrad is Conrad's haunting tale. Marlow, a seaman and wanderer, recounts his physical and psychological journey in search of the enigmatic Kurtz. Travelling to the heart of the African continent, he discovers how Kurtz has gained his position of power and influence over the local people. Marlow's struggle to fathom his experience involves him in a radical questioning of not only his own nature and values but the nature and values of his society.

Focusing on instances of moral pedagogy in novels by Thomas Mann, Albert Camus, Joseph Conrad, and Fyodor Dostoevsky, he suggests that literature uses an aesthetic portrayal of personal relations to introduce scenes of moral tension that illustrate the way ethical claims are made and validated. Book jacket.

Heart of Darkness is a novella written by Polish-born writer Joseph Conrad, born Józef Teodor Konrad Korzeniowski. Before its 1902 publication, it appeared as a three-part series in 1899 in Blackwood's Magazine. It is widely regarded as a significant work of English literature and part
